PREVIEW OF JUNE ISSUE OF THE KIWANIS MAGAZINE

The June issue of The Kiwanis Magazine is the pre-convention number. In it will be found complete information on the program at the Boston Convention to be held June 18-22. International President H. G. Hatfield provides the text for the frontispiece with an inspirational message and there follows a description of the program by Clarence Conner, Chairman of the International Committee on Convention Program, a welcome by George Morin, Chairman of the General Convention Committee, a story on the features of ladies entertainment, some suggestions for the observance of All-Kiwanis Night by Chairman J. M. England of the International Committee on Inter-Club Relations and photographs of things of particular convention interest in and around Boston.

The magazine is not devoted entirely to the convention, however, for there appears a splendid article by Webb Waldron entitled "Every Man His Own Actor." It tells interestingly and entertainingly of the manners and methods of staging these sponsored community dramatics, musical comedies and minstrels. To every club member who has participated in these affairs the article will be of most particular interest.

Kiwanians are very much interested in city government. "The Council-Manager Plan of Municipal Government" is explained by Bennett O. Knudson, International Vice President, who has watched it operate in his own city. There is an informative article on "Canadian Citizenship Week" by Fred G. McAlister, former International Trustee.

More than 75 percent of all Kiwanis clubs meet, eat and generally work out their problems in hotels. Leonard K. Thompson has been Association by being giving the honored by the American Hotel responsibility of promoting Hotel Week during June. The past president of the Miami, Florida, club offers "The Hotel—Hub of the Community."

The regular features are all there, including Secretary Parker's Page, Roe Fulkerson's Personal Page and Editorials, George Kimball's Questions and Answers and Club and Activities.

The annual "ALL KIWANIS NITE" program will be celebrated by this and adjoining clubs at an Interclub meeting to be held in San Diego with our club as hosts.

The date will be June 19, and the affair will be an evening meeting to which of course the ladies are invited.

The program committee will have an interesting, and we are told, a unique program for the occasion and it is hoped that members will avail themselves of this opportunity as there will be no Tuesday's meeting the day following.

Further announcement will be made in the next issue of the Tidings.

At the opening of the new office here Mr. Sutter, in commenting on the outlook for business, pointed out that the general tone of financial markets and business throughout the country has been showing considerable basic improvement for some time.

The next week's program will be a rather interesting one especially to those stamp enthusiasts who are interested in United States issues.

Postage stamps and their history is a most absorbing study and it is hard to find anyone who at some time or other has not had the collecting craze, if one might call it that.

We are looking forward to an interesting meeting with Uncle Sam's postal men.

Our last week's meeting was held at several clubs as there was no program owing to the day being a legal holiday and the fact that so many of our members were going out of town for the day.

We are already receiving makeup slips from some of the members, and are hoping that a goodly number visited other clubs for their make-up.

Our latest member is William W. Hoyt, located at Eleventh and C streets and operating the Super Service Station. "Bill" is a fine young fellow and we are glad to have him in the club. After a short while he will get to know the members better and each one can do his part by visiting him at his place of business for a little service which he and his firm are giving.
