3. United States — Canada Relations

Through the years our two nations have enjoyed a relatively easy and automatic relationship with each other. As our two countries move into new situations, we can less than ever afford to take each other for granted. We need to show sound common sense, mature judgment and understanding of our long-term interest to ensure that this new and complex relationship between Canada and the United States will consolidate and strengthen rather than weaken our good neighborhood.

WHEREAS, due to increased population since World War II the stress of commercial activities relating to production and moving raw material and finished products across the border and through these countries to foreign soil has become a real concern of the two nations; and

WHEREAS, serious conferences are being held between representatives of our two nations for the purpose of a better understanding of the intricate diplomatic and business difficulties that arise as the in-

Kiwanian Robert C. Lindsay, former Treasurer of the City of San Diego, receiving standing ovation at our meeting of July 19th for his integrity and unselfish devotion as a public servant during his 22 years as Treasurer. Since his recent retirement he has entered into a contractual agreement with the City of San Diego in an advisory capacity, relative to the investment of funds.

tensity of the competitive action grows; and

WHEREAS, Kiwanis membership is composed of business and professional men who are concerned with the possibility of strained relations between the peoples of our two countries:

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the long-existing practice of friendly relationships, built through Kiwanis service programs, be fitted to these current problems and to this end Kiwanis International urges its member clubs to support action such as:

1. Educational programs in the schools directed toward creating a complete and full understanding of our interdependence.
2. Conferences of Kiwanis representatives with government officials of both countries.
3. Effective study of our relationship by Kiwanis clubs.
4. Broad recognition of United States-Canada Good Will Week.

"Carroll For Quotes"

A Christian without courtesy is like a millionaire without money in his pocket.

Old Joe Jones says, "There is one thing to be said about ignorance—it sure causes a lot of interesting arguments."

Hardening of the heart ages people more quickly than hardening of the arteries.
